Finals are finished, the halls are closed and it is safe to breathe again! You made it! Go ahead, pat yourself on the back! The end of the academic year is tough, but we knew you could do it! The work of a Higher Ed professional is often taken for granted, so we want to recognize your work and let you know you are special. Keep up the awesome work and remember to take some time for yourself!

So Many Books, So Little Time

Now that the school year is done, it's time to curl up with a good book! This month we created an official Book Club! Learning is always an ongoing process and it is important to learn from others in the field and beyond! Here's how it will work. Each month our staff will select a book recommended by our viewers. At the end of each month we will post our official ratings and opinions of the novel and encourage our viewers to add their own comments to join the conversation. This upcoming month we will be reading, "Creativity, Inc." by Ed Catmull. Have a book recommendation? Send us a message on our "Contact Us" page!

Lead On! Jessica Ramirez

Luminstruct had to travel internationally to find this month's Lead On! Spotlight Leader! Jessica Ramirez is a school librarian in Colombia. In her write-up, Jessica discusses the importance of remaining calm and positive in times of change and how to be confident in every job you have. Find her story in our Lead On! Section.
